Index

Volume 18 (1986)

Berger, Allen. From the Editor, 3.

Berger, Allen. Epilogue, 125.

Brause, Rita. A Response to George Henry, 96.

Britton, James. Attempting to Clarify Our Objectives for Teaching English, 153.

CEE Commission on Supervision and Curriculum Development. Response to George Henry, 67.

Cooke, Janine (with Allan Luke and Carmen Luke). The Selective Tradition in Action: Gender Bias in Student Teachers' Selections of Children's Literature, 209.

Daniels, Harvey (with Steven Zemelman). Authorship and Authority: Helping Writing Teachers Grow, 219.

Dyson, Anne Haas. Staying Free to Dance with the Children: The Dangers of Sanctifying Activities in the Language Arts Curriculum, 135.

Early, Margaret J. The Essay as Springboard, 81.

Ellis, W. Geiger. Probes, 122.

Fagan, Edward R. Reflections About George Henry's English Education, 92.

Farrell, Edmund J. Reflections on "What Is the Nature of English Education?" 88.

Foster, Harold M. Letter to the Editor, 67.

Gray, Donald. New Ideas about English and Departments of English, 147.

Greene, Maxine. Toward Possibility: Expanding the Range of Literacy, 231.

Henry, George H. What Is the Nature of English Education? 4.

Index

Volume 18 (1986)

Berger, Allen. From the Editor, 3.

Berger, Allen. Epilogue, 125.

Brause, Rita. A Response to George Henry, 96.

Britton, James. Attempting to Clarify Our Objectives for Teaching English, 153.

CEE Commission on Supervision and Curriculum Development. Response to George Henry, 67.

Cooke, Janine (with Allan Luke and Carmen Luke). The Selective Tradition in Action: Gender Bias in Student Teachers' Selections of Children's Literature, 209.

Daniels, Harvey (with Steven Zemelman). Authorship and Authority: Helping Writing Teachers Grow, 219.

Dyson, Anne Haas. Staying Free to Dance with the Children: The Dangers of Sanctifying Activities in the Language Arts Curriculum, 135.

Early, Margaret J. The Essay as Springboard, 81.

Ellis, W. Geiger. Probes, 122.

Fagan, Edward R. Reflections About George Henry's English Education, 92.

Farrell, Edmund J. Reflections on "What Is the Nature of English Education?" 88.

Foster, Harold M. Letter to the Editor, 67.

Gray, Donald. New Ideas about English and Departments of English, 147.

Greene, Maxine. Toward Possibility: Expanding the Range of Literacy, 231.

Henry, George H. What Is the Nature of English Education? 4.

Henry, George H. George Henry Responds to Critiques of Essay, 107.

Hook, J. N. Where George Is Coming From, 69.

Koziol, S. M., Jr. Where Does His Theory Come From? A Response to George Henry, 77.

LaRocque, Geraldine E. Letter to the Editor, 67.

Lehr, Fran. ERIC/RCS Report: Teacher Competency Testing—The State of the Art, 245.

Luke, Allen. The Selective Tradition in Action: Gender Bias in Student Teachers' Selections of Children's Literature, 209.

Luke, Carmen (with Allan Luke and Janine Cooke). The Selective Tradition in Action: Gender Bias in Student Teachers' Selections of Children's Literature, 209.

Pradl, Gordon M. The Experience of Myth and Myth-making in English Education, 99.

Purves, Alan C. Commentary on George Henry's "What Is the Nature of English Education?" 42.

Robinson, H. Allan. Behavioral Objectives Vs. Transactions, 85.

Rorschach, Elizabeth. Relearning to Teach: Peer Observation as a Means of Professional Development for Teachers, 159.

Ruth, Leo. Finding Your Theory in Practice, 73.

Shafer, Robert E. To Celebrate George H. Henry, 46.

Shook, Ronald. The Two-Brain Theory: A Critique, 173.

Squire, James R. The Fault, Dear George, Is in Ourselves, 50.

West, William W. A Response to George Henry, 52.

Whitney, Robert (with Elizabeth Rorschach). Relearning to Teach: Peer Observation as a Means of Professional Development for Teachers, 159.

Woods, Claire A. On the Seashore of Worlds: Play and Potential Space in English, 197.

Zemelman, Steven (with Harvey Daniels), Authorship and Authority: Helping Writing Teachers Grow, 219.